Miss Bertha Slisher, entertained a number of her friends, last Monday evening, at the home of her sister Mrs. Arthur Henderson.

Papers of date of Nov. 4th, 1897 for which we advertised, have been furnished us. Will pay $25.00 for copy of SENTINEL, dated Oct. 28, 1897. The paper is valuable to us to complete our file.

Mr. Barney Strocke advertises that he will weave carpet and repair umbrellas. He is well known to our citizens as an honorable, reliable man and a good weaver. It is a great deal better, too, to give Barney the job of fixing your umbrella, than take the chances with a tramp. Give Barney your work, and you will not be deceived nor disappointed.

Gen. John G. Reeves of Lancaster was in our city on last Thursday evening and as attorney, with Mr. Lowry, closed up the deal and effected the transfer of title of the property of the Logan Nat. Gas Co. We learn that the new company proposes to further develop the gas resources, and may supply a number of other adjacent towns in the near future.

Judge Slough has sentenced the Saloon Keepers in Lancaster from $10.00 to $30.00 each, in the aggregate $355.00 for keeping open on Sunday. As a matter of business the Saloonist of our Sainly Sister City will find it cheaper attending church than keeping saloon on Sunday. The profit in the Sunday occupation is a subject matter for which our Lancaster contemporaries are unctiously qualified and we prayerfully await their sermonizing.

On last Friday Col. Whysal of Springfield, General Superintendent of the Brice Nat. Gas Syndicate, accompanied by Attorney George Martin and J. D. Clark of Lancaster held a conference with the County Commissioners, touching the rights and privileges of the Gas Co. in its relation with the interest of the County. The Commissioners claimed that the placing of pipe line along the road side and the establishment of a well near the wagon road is a continuing damage and demanded the sum of $500.00. The Gas Company offered to pay for any damages thus far done, and guarantee the pay of any further damage. No agreement was reached, and the matter stands open until the next regular meeting of the Commissioners, First Monday in March.

The Athens University Mirror notes that:

"The University of California has opened a novel prize competition for new college yells. The prize is two good tickets for a football match."

The prize should be two or more good tickets for a bowl on the foot or half way between head and foot. The prize in this case would be a promoter of the yell. The harder the kicks the louder the yell.

EVIDENCE

HOW IT IS UNDERSTOOD AND MISAPPREHENDED.

A Business Transaction That Confuses.

We often hear lawyers express astonishment at the disagreement of a jury when the testimony is clear and undisputed.

We had a pleasant experience on this disagreement of mind in man on an agreed statement of fact.

Two of our level headed and most prudent business men, Mr. Henry Trimmer and Mr. John Robert West, as is their custom, dropped in the SEXTINEL office for the usual chat on Saturday afternoon. In order to keep them off the disagreeing subject of politics, this business transaction was submitted to them.

Col. Davenport, not our Ed, had concluded to go to Klondyke. He came to town to buy his equipment, and in due time went into Mr. Ranch's Shoe Store, advertised elsewhere, to get a first class pair of Alaska boots.

He bought a pair for $5.00, paying Mr. Ranch a $10.00 bill. Mr. Ranch could not make the change, and called on the Editor of the SEXTINEL, whom he knew had money in pockets full, and got two five dollar bills, in exchange. Davenport with his boots and his $5.00 bill, left for Dawson. The Editor as is his very frequent custom proceeded to the bank and deposited his cash. Myron's eyes detected that the bill in question from Ranch, was a counterfeit. The Editor returned it to Mr. Ranch who of course promptly paid back the Editor $10.00 in good money, holding the counterfeit which of course is worth nothing. Now the question is, how much is Mr. Ranch out? What did he lose in the transaction?

The testimony is clear, no dispute. The jury composed of Trimmer and West held argument and took ballots until nearly supper time and could not agree with each other, couldn't agree long each with himself. The transaction is such as may occur in every man's business. Who can post the books correctly and give the argument to convince he is right.

After a worry over this, then do not wonder why it is that juries are sometimes so contrary, or near sighted as not to be able to see things as others see them.

NEW SCHEME

The State House to be Lifted Up Like a Child by a Chicago Man, and While it is up

Workmen Will Build a New Story Under the Building. The Work Will Require an Entire Season and More Than 1000 Men to Work.—Legislature to be Asked to Approve

Something Like $300,000 for the Job.

That there is always something new under the sun is demonstrated by H. Sheeler, a Chicago man who proposes in a bill being prepared and to be introduced by Senator Miller, of Licking. In the provisions of the bill will be an item of something like $300,000 with which amount Mr. Sheeler proposes to move not the world as Archimedes would, but a considerable part of it. His idea is that instead of the state buying new ground and erecting new buildings for the use of certain state and judicial officers the simplest thing is to raise or shore the present state house. This would seem a work of gigantic undertaking, but to Mr. Sheeler it would be a comparatively simple process. Almost anything can be done by a Chicago man and Mr. Sheeler says he can raise the state house and complete the work in something like three months. His plan is simple enough. Beginning at the terrace just at the head of the steps leading to the first story he would cut off the building from the base as with a huge knife.

READY FOR WORK.

Then the steps and the terrace part would be carefully covered with thick plank and Mr. Sheeler would be ready for work. The material required for the undertaking would make a small forest. One of the longest freight trains in the world would scarcely hold all that he needed in the work. He would need several thousand screws and tons and tons of timber. When the actual work of lifting the mighty building is begun a thousand men would be at work and remain at work for perhaps three weeks. In all this time the occupants of the state house would never know anything was going on. Not a picture on the walls would be disturbed. Not a crack in the plastering would result. The immense structure would be raised more than two acres and weigh ing tens of thousands of tons—perhaps millions—would slowly rise at one and the same time in its every part without a particle of friction, without a jar and so swiftly and silently that save for the orders of the shorters none would be the wiser for the work in progress.

MR. SHEELER'S ARGUMENT.

The claim is made that the lower story should be more modern while the upper stories be removed from the general observation would attract the least attention. The first story could be made as modern as the architect choose while in other respects the building would also be modernized.

The dome would be a thing of the past in its present form and stone stairway which the weary public now toils would be largely displaced by modern elevators. All the upper rooms and chambers would remain as they are though such changes could be made as desirable so far as the location of the different offices were concerned. The theory of those who agree with Mr. Sheeler is that there is more room in the air than there is on the surface and that by raising the building the beauty of the present state house ground would be preserved.

WHAT HE HAS DONE.

The Chicago opera house was one of the buildings shored by Mr. Sheeler. This is a building of ten stories. The B. & O. freight house in Chicago, 40 feet wide and 400 ft. long was moved over 200 feet one way and 80 another all in a single piece by M. Sheeler. A Baptist Church in Chicago 90x160 with 225 foot tower weighing 1432 tons and a total weight of 6500 tons was moved 51 feet and raised five feet by Mr. Sheeler. The introduction of such a bill in the legislature is likely to precipitate considerable argument and may lead to the practical solution of the difficult state house problem.

Important Bills Before the Legislature.

Two measures are before the legislature of public concern. One is to amend the constitution so as to give women a vote at all elections; the other is a county Local Option law. The Franchise Bill provides for an amendment to the constitution. Striking out the word "male" in the elector's qualification, it is claimed will remove all dispute on the constitutionality of the present law authorizing women to vote at school elections. The argument is, if women are properly electors in this case they are in all other elections.

The county local option law proposes that the county vote shall have a say in the matter of liquor selling in towns. It is claimed that if townships can suppress the sale in the small villages the county can in the larger towns. Some years ago the Second Amendment almost carried in this county, the county vote falling below expectation in Ward township lost the election. Since then Ward township, except the incorporation of Murry City, has gone for local option and the sentiment is still as strong as heretofore in the other county localities.

The bill will most likely pass. The country members generally favor it. Then there will be a lively campaign.

The Law Hopper is kept full of bills of grist. In addition to a synopsis of pending measures published elsewhere in this issue we report the latest of a general character.

To create the office of oil well inspector.

Granting a pension to disabled working men.

Committing a father of a bastard child to a work house, the wages earned, to go for the keep of the child.

Requiring children to support their parents.

Full books of county precincts to be sent by express or registered letter instead of a messenger.

A board of health to examine water and food for stock.

A bounty for sugar beets.

A penitentiary offense to entice a boy under 18 years of age to enter a house of ill repute or a saloon. This bill is by Senator Riley of Marietta.

Persons received aid from poor fund, must work the amount out on public roads, or be treated under the vagrant act.

Requiring bills allowed by commissioners to be inspected by prosecuting attorney.

OBITUARY.

William Alexander was born May 8th, 1818 in Lancaster, Fairfield Co, Ohio. Departed this life near Union Furnace, Feb. 3rd, 1898, aged 79 years 8 months and 25 days. Mr. Alexander came to Logan with his parents when quite small. He could recollect when Logan was in its infancy. Afterwards he moved to Washington Tp. where he died. He was one of the old pioneers of Hocking, living here near 70 years. He was married to Ameline Crumblit March 22, 1849. She died Aug. 1868. To this union there were no children. He was again married to Christina Staker in 1870. To this union there were 10 children born, three preceded their father to the land of the Blessed. There are four sons and three daughters and their mother to mourn his loss. There is also three grand children. He was converted and joined the M. E. Church about thirty-five ago. He was faithful to attend the preaching of the Word, and also attended the prayer-meetings and he loved to talk of his christian experience, and the love of Jesus. Mr. Alexander was an honorable and just man in business transactions; was elected to the office of Trustee several times by the citizens of Washington Tp. also to the office of Treasurer of the Township. He was held in high esteem by his neighbors. About five years ago while at meeting at Center Chapel he had a stroke of Paralysis, he recovered somewhat and in a year after he had another stroke and never recovered from the effect until death released him. He bore his suffering with true christian patience and peacefully fell asleep in Jesus who translated his suffering child into his blissful home in heaven.

His funeral took place Friday afternoon, Feb. 4 and was conducted by Rev. Wright of the Brethren Church of Logan, who delivered a valuable discourse from Deuteronomy 32nd, chapter and 29th verse, O that they were wise, that they understood this that they would consider their latter end. His remains were laid to rest in the Armstrong cemetery in Star Tp. and was followed by a large concourse of friends and neighbors to his last resting place.

A FRIEND.

CARD OF THANKS.

We publicly wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their many deeds of kindness in our great loss and deep sorrow. Mrs. Christina Alexander and family.

The Right Kind of Seeds.

John D. Imley, Zanesville, Ohio, favors us with his annual Catalogue of Seeds and Plants. He is one of the very best Seedmen in Ohio, sure and reliable, sell only what will grow and produce good fruit and beautiful flowers. One feature of his Catalogue is that seeds are priced by the ounce, pound, pint and quart, thus stating just how many each packet contains, which we think is quite important, as a packet may contain a half dozen seeds or a half pound. If you are thinking of making a garden, by all means get his Catalogue and make at least a trial of his seed.
